

PAID IN FULL

Novelized From Eugene Walter's Great Play

That "Paid In Full" is a story of absorbing interest has been proved by its phenomenal success in dramatic form. For two seasons there has been no diminution in the drawing power of this vital piece of realism. In its present form it is not less engrossing. The features which made it so powerful as a play are not less potent in the serial. It is the same keen exposition of human motives put into the simplest forms of expression. There is no waste of material, no attempt to moralize, no break in the continuity. The three men who are the central figures in the story stand out in admirable distinctness from the very first, and the one woman whose splendid rectitude illuminates it all lives from the moment of her appearance. Although it is certain to produce frequent thrills, the story is neither melodramatic nor sensational. Its power lies in its humanness.

CHAPTER I.

"N" O! I'll not give 'em a raise of five cents an hour or of a cent an hour; nary a raise, understand. And I don't want you to come here thinking you can build me, because you'll find mighty quick you're mistaken. If any man thinks he can do that I want to see him."

The words, uttered in a wrathful, hoarse, came through the closed door of the president's room and were heard by every employee and visitor in the main office of the Latin-American Steamship company, which occupied an entire floor of a big building in Bowling Green, New York city.

Some of the employees smiled and passed the remark that the boss "had 'em bad"; that day, but the smiles were of the sickly apprehensive order for the fact that he was in exorable humor was perfectly known to each and all, having been impressed upon them very forcibly at intervals from the minute the great man had made his appearance in the clock-struck nine o'clock punctuality as the clock struck nine o'clock.

Others seemed and kept their reflections to themselves. The voices of the other parties to the conversation were not audible to the listeners, but that of the president, with its all penetrating roar, burst forth again:

"I don't give a tin whistle what you or your unions do, understand. Let 'em strike, strike and be d—d. But you tell 'em this from me—any man who's fool enough to throw up his job does so for good and all. He'll never work again for the Latin-American Steamship company in this or any other port. I'll take care of that. I'll show 'em who and what I am if they don't know."

The door opened, and two white faced, intimidated men emerged, cap in hand. They were rough looking men, evidently laborers, lured to the hardest kind of work. They shuffled quickly past the neatly dressed clerk and did not breathe freely until they found themselves in the cross streets of hurrying passersby on the street. There, as they mopped their brows and looked around for a saloon, something of the arrogant insolence with which they had demanded audience of the head of the company and which had been speedily cowed out of them by that formidable and choleric personage returned to them.

Meanwhile at the open door of the room in which they had been through the ordeal of their interview Captain Amos Williams, president and general manager of the line, glared after his departing visitors and around the office. There was dead silence, and every employee, from the highest to the office boys, impudent and irrepressible there, as everywhere else, save when Captain Williams was high, became deeply engrossed in his work.

"Call up Mr. Smith and tell him I want to see him at once," he growled to no one in particular. Then he reentered his room and slammed the door.

In a few minutes, however, his bell rang, and a boy responded to it with an alacrity not customary in any other office in all New York.

"Tell Mr. Brooks to come here," was the order he received.

EUGENE WALTER.

The boy hurried out and approached one of the men behind the brass lattice screens.
"Mr. Brooks, the captain wants you," he announced.
Mr. Brooks did not reply, but he got down leisurely and with bad grace from his stool and moved with equal deliberation to the president's room.
"Brooks, has Fernandez & Co., that Pernambuco firm, been heard from yet?" demanded his employer.
"Check came today," was the laconic reply.
"Full amount?"

HORSE SHOW

Next Week In Louisville—Big Times For Kentuckians—Eastern Exhibitors Expected.

John Dolan, of Lexington, is to judge the five-gaited saddle horses at the Louisville Horse Show the week of October 11, according to announcement from the metropolis of the State. Mr. Dolan is one of the best known owners and breeders of five-gaited saddlers in the State, and his selection, it is assured, will be satisfactory to the exhibitors. George C. Clausen, of New York, will judge the three-gaited saddlers, and as he served last year with eminent ability it is expected that he will be able to satisfy this time.

Among the big Eastern exhibitors who are expected to attend the Louisville show are Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Reginald C. Vanderbilt, William G. Rockefeller, C. W. Watson, Paul Sorg and others of equal note.

CHURCH WEDDING AT ELIZABETHTOWN

Miss Francis Lee Smith and Rev. Scott United in Marriage—Bride Popular Woman.

GROOM IS AN EXCELLENT MAN

Hardinsburg, Ky., Sept. 28.—(Special)—The marriage of Miss Francis Campbell Smith, third daughter of Mr. R. A. Smith, an old resident of this city, to the Rev. D. W. Scott, Pastor of the Christian Church at Elizabethtown, Ky., was quietly celebrated at the home of the bride this morning at eight o'clock, in the presence of the immediate members of the family. Rev. Dr. Arthur Mather, Pastor of the Hardinsburg Southern Methodist church, was the officiating minister, and the ceremony was in keeping with the occasion.

The honeymoon will be spent in Virginia, after which Rev. and Mrs. Scott will take up their residence in Elizabethtown.

Last Year In Naval School.

Elliott Moorman, of Glendean, United States Midshipman, was here and at Hardinsburg Sunday. He went to Owensboro Sunday night for a brief visit before leaving for Annapolis for his last year in the Naval Academy.

New Store.

C. J. Cox has opened a grocery store at New Bethel. It will be strictly a cash store or produce in exchange. He desires the patronage of the people in that neighborhood. He will try to please every one who deals with him and give them the highest market price for produce and the lowest prices on groceries. His store will close at 9 o'clock p. m. Saturday night. No goods sold on Sunday.

Rev. Currie Leaves.

Yesterday morning the Rev. Currie, who for four years has been pastor of the Methodist church here, left for Conference to receive his appointment for the coming year.

BLANK POOLING PLEDGES STORED

Tomorrow—Canvassers All Stopped—Lienancy Which Prevailed Last Year Thing Of The Past.

GREATER PART OF CROP STORED.

At the session of the Green River Tobacco Growers Association held Saturday the proposition of closing up tight on pooling pledges September 30 was discussed and the agreement already adopted was approved. President Berry therefore announces that all blank pledge papers will be nailed up in the pool after the regular closing day of September 30 and if he isn't signed up by that date he isn't going to sign up at all. This stringent rule has been adopted for the benefit of those who hang out until the associations are guaranteed big sales and then want to avail themselves of the opportunities offered.

Last year there was some leniency in the matter of tardy pledge papers and some were allowed to get into the pool after the regular closing day had passed, but the officials say this time that there shall be absolutely none of this "back-tracking." They think that every farmer in the Green River district has had sufficient notice that the pledges are to close on September 30 and if he isn't signed up by that date he isn't going to sign up at all. This stringent rule has been adopted for the benefit of those who hang out until the associations are guaranteed big sales and then want to avail themselves of the opportunities offered.

All canvassers were called in Friday and brought fine reports of progress in getting pledges signed. There were many calls at the Owensboro headquarters and at the various stores in the county on Saturday for pooling papers, too, and Saturday was the first day that the pledges were so distributed. It is the opinion of the tobacco association officials that the greater part of the crop in the entire district will be pledged by September 30 and the three associations will then be able to get together and begin to plan a sale.—Owensboro Inquirer.

TEACHERS

Have A Splendid Meeting At Stephensport—Superintendent Trent Pleased With The Large Attendance.

The first Teacher's Association of the term was held at Stephensport Saturday in the Baptist church.

An excellent program was arranged by Superintendent Trent. Almost all of the teachers in the district and several visiting teachers, together with a number of the patrons and pupils, were present. Interesting talks were made by the teachers and the music furnished by the children was enjoyed.

Prof. Tanner, Prof. McCoy, Misses Julia and Maggie Wroe and Miss Eunice Jennings, of Cloverport, attended.

Special Service.

Rev. L. L. Pickett will deliver an address on State Wide Prohibition at the Methodist church Sunday morning.

Republican Senatorial Convention.

The Republican Senatorial Committee met last Saturday and called a convention to be held in each county next Monday to select delegates to be sent to the District Convention to be held at Irvington, Tuesday Oct. 5, to select a candidate for the State Senate. Judge Adair, of Hancock, it is given out, will be the only candidate before the convention and will be nominated without opposition.

Mixed Woman's Ready Wit.
"Don't always rely upon the ready wit of a woman," said the man who is sometimes pleased to consider himself an oracle. "That ready wit business is sometimes prone to get away off."
"For example, my wife and children had been staying in the country for several weeks, and I was regular with my letters, as every loving husband should be. Finally, on the day before my wife was to start for home, I concluded my letter to her with these words:
"This will be the last letter I will write to you for a long, long time."
"When I got down to my office the next morning I found a telegram from my wife waiting for me. 'What on earth do you mean?' read the dispatch.
"Later a registered letter came from her. She had blotted almost every line with tears. What it was all about I could not imagine.
"Then my telephone bell rang, and when I answered I heard my wife's voice speaking over the long distance phone.
"Oh, John," said she, "is that really you? I thought you had committed suicide!"

Making Money On the Farm
XIII.—Poultry Parasites and Diseases
By C. V. GREGORY,
Author of "Home Course in Modern Agriculture"

THE most discouraging thing about the poultry business is the great number of parasites and ailments which affect the fowl. Unless special precautions are taken the fowls are continually dying from one cause or another, and the profits shrink correspondingly. Most of these troubles are easily preventable if a little care is taken. One of the most important considerations is cleanliness. The house should be cleaned out frequently and sprinkled with kaillime or some disinfectant. Lime scattered about the yards also helps. The coop and other buildings should be moved from place to place frequently. Whitewash should be used liberally everywhere. One of the best kinds of whitewash made according to what is known as the government formula, as follows:
Slack lime a bushel, one line in boiling water. Strain and add a weak of salt that has been dissolved in warm water, three pounds of ground rock for several days. Add one-half pound of powdered Spanish whiting, one pound of glue dissolved in warm water. Mix these well and then let the mixture stand for several days. Heat before using and apply hot.

Importance of Pure Water.
One important means of keeping fowls healthy and free from disease is giving them a constant supply of pure water. Because fowls do not require water in as large quantities as other animals it is often thought that they can get along without any except what they get in puddles in the yard. They will drink such water if they can get no other, but it is just as bad for their health as it would be for yours. This is a matter which is too often overlooked, and poultry raising for profit becomes impossible on that account.

Water put out in open troughs soon becomes warm and dirty, and if it should happen to be a contagious disease in the flock it will be rapidly spread through the water. A common and effective remedy is to have the shallow side of the poultry house be one of the best ways of supplying water. If filled once a week or so no further attention is needed. A jug or large bottle of water inverted over a shallow pan in such a manner that the opening is just covered by the water in the pan makes a good drinking fountain. The water will run down into the pan as fast as it is used. There are several types of metal fountains on the market which work on this same principle. Most of them are cheap and satisfactory.

A considerable factor in causing disease among fowls is improper feeding. Overfeeding and feeding too much soft food are the causes of a large percentage of the deaths among young chicks. In older fowls the corn ration that is so often the sole food is frequently the cause of digestive and other troubles. A variety of food is judiciously fed will do much to keep the fowls healthy.

Another cause of disease in unhealthy surroundings. Low damp poultry yards, where the water stands in puddles for days after each rain, are prolific sources of poultry troubles. Have the poultry house high and dry. If a dry yard cannot be obtained in any other way grade it up a little and cover it with gravel.

Strong Vitality Necessary.
Many of the diseases to which poultry is subject are due to inherited weakness. Experiments have proved that vigor and vitality are readily transmitted from parent to offspring. In an experiment at the Cornell station two pairs of fowls were selected. One had especially strong vitality, and the other was of feeble vitality. The results of the experiment were as follows: The strong pair produced 25 chicks apiece more at maturity. It is this lack of selection for vitality that causes so many of the fancy varieties to run out. Vitality is the most important single point to be looked to in poultry raising, especially in selecting fowls for the breeding pen. If such selection is made, the health and vigor of the flock will be greatly improved and the losses correspondingly decreased.

FILLMORE CHINA.

Interesting Pieces of Crockery Added Recently to White House Collection.
Interesting pieces of china once owned by President Fillmore were placed recently in the White House cabinets. They were obtained through the efforts of Mrs. Abby G. Baker, who has charge of the White House collection, under the direction of Mrs. Taft. She learned that much of the Fillmore china could be found in Buffalo, the former president's old home. There she found that two sisters, Mrs. B. Terry and Miss Cornelia Burris, had bought the old Fillmore mansion and were planning to sell the china. They were delighted to add something to the White House collection and gave an old Staffordshire platter, redwood pattern plate and other dishes.

Lice and Mites.
The most troublesome parasites of poultry are lice and mites. These pests are very different in their habits. The lice remain on the bird all the time, eating the feathers and skin. They are not usually present in large numbers but do a considerable amount of damage, except to sitting hens and small chicks. One of the most effective means of combating the dust bath. This is simply a convenient sized box filled with fine dust in which the hens can roll. Lice and mites breathe through their holes along the sides of their bodies. The dust fills these holes, and they die of asphyxiation. A little turpentine added to the dust bath makes it more effective.

The dust treatment is usually all that is required to keep the lice and mites away. Where they get unusually bad pyrethrum or tobacco dust blown in among the feathers is effective. This plan takes too long to be used extensively, however. Lice frequently make their way from the hen to the chicks at hatching time and often cause the death of many of them. The best way to prevent this, of course, is to see that the hens are free from lice before the chickens hatch. One of the best remedies is to dust the chicks with insect powder or paint them around the neck and under the wings with a sulphur and kerosene mixture. Mites are much worse pests than lice. They live in the crevices in the walls and roosts, attacking the fowls at night. They do not eat the skin, but bore through it and suck the blood. Mites are so small that they can hardly be seen with the naked eye. The damage they do is not measured by their size. Half the so called diseases to which poultry are subject are caused by mites. While fowls sleep and die without any apparent cause it is time to look for mites. Painting the roosts and adjacent walls thoroughly with kerosene petroleum will destroy many of them. The same treatment should also be applied to coops and nest boxes. The litter under the roosts is often a breeding place for mites. It should be cleaned out frequently and hauled away. After cleaning out, the floor should be thoroughly soaked with a strong solution of some coal tar dip. If the poultry house is fairly tight burning sulphur in it will effectively destroy all mites within reach of the fumes. Keeping vermin and disease in check requires considerable work and constant vigilance, but it is worth the effort for the improved health of the flock.

The edges of the casing and medallions are worked in narrow buttonhole stitch and then cut out. The latter thus make slides which come over the shirring. The flowers are worked in satin stitch. A clover design worked in green is effective for wearing with a green belt, while with a brown one a conventionalized motif of chestnuts and leaves should be embroidered and buttonhole in brown. The edges of the oval, oblong or square million slides are finished in straight buttonhole stitch about a sixteenth of an inch deep or less.

THE worst sin toward our fellow creatures is not to hate them, but to be indifferent to them; that's the essence of inhumanity.--Bernard Shaw,

The Hon. R. W. Owen was in Hardinsburg Monday to see the final wind-up of the late primary. Mr. Owen takes his defeat like a man, and says he will support the nominee heartily. He made a fair, square fight, and did the best he could. He is very proud of the vote he got in Breckenridge, especially at his old home precinct, Gleedane. He got all of the votes save five in his home precinct, Lewisport. This vote is also gratifying to him. The ticket in Breckenridge, he says, is a good one, and a winner, and he will do all he can to help it. Dick Owen, like most of men, may have some faults, but he is true to his party, and is never found sulking if things don't go his way.

The News again wishes to emphasize the fact that the ticket put out by the Democrats this year is the best the party has ever made. The men nominated stand very high, morally, socially and otherwise. They are competent to handle the public business in the county, and if elected, will give satisfaction to the entire people. The thing most desired now by the people is an economical administration of the business pertaining to the county, and this they will have if they will vote for and elect for their County Judge Matthias Miller and V. G. Babarge for County Attorney. Both of these men have had considerable experience in handling the public business of the county, and they know the needs of the people.

A complete working organization in every precinct in the county is the most important thing for the Democrats in this election. This they must have and victory is certain. In unity there is strength, and let no Democrat who has the success of the party at heart be idle or lukewarm from now until the election in November. This has been the vantage ground in all county elections heretofore, and the present race calls for much needed action. Let us make it complete this time, and the whole ticket will win.

There are quite a number of Republicans who do not like the way that Judge Ahl has put out of the race for County Judge. There is no denying the fact that on a square deal he had a majority of his party for him for that nomination. But the thing was fixed in about ten days before the convention assembled and Judge Ahl was put to the bad. The old soldiers who were heart and soul for him for the nomination do not like the way he was treated a little bit.

The News takes pleasure this week in publishing the first chapter of "Paid in Full," a splendid novel. Installments will be given each week, and we urge you to commence reading the story today.

George Harris is spoken of for Magistrate in this district. Mr. Harris is well equipped for the place, and will make a good, conservative officer.

Jim Jarboe, of Chenault, is not only a good campaigner but a good orator. His speech nominating Dr. J. H. Hart for Representative was a fine one.

Lee Walls has already tackled a hornet's nest and is now ready for a yellow jacket's nest if there are any Republican votes at the end of it.

Did you know that every man on our ticket was born and reared on a farm? And all served their time working in the soil.

Every Democrat in this county is on the firing line and intends to stand there until the battle closes November 2.

McDaniels will roll up an old-time Democratic majority. Dr. Hart and Ves Smith will clean up the platter.

The official count in the late Senatorial primary gave Owen 729, Shellman 566, and Brown 918.

Vic Robertson says everything looks good to him, and so does Judge Miller.

HOME ENDORSEMENT.

Hundreds of Cloverport Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Cloverport people that evidence beyond dispute for every Cloverport reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

Price Graham, Railroad St., Cloverport, Ky., says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a remedy that will live up to its reputation. For four years I suffered from disordered kidneys and the secretions were much too frequent in passage, forcing me to rise several times during the night. Whenever I caught cold, it was sure to settle my kidneys and greatly aggravate my trouble. My back ached severely and when I stooped, I was seized by sharp twinges through my loins. The ache in my back at night greatly disturbed my rest and in the morning I rose feeling sore and lame. I was very nervous, the slightest work tired me and I often felt dull and languid. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Fisher's drug store, relieved me in a short time and it required but the contents of four boxes to complete cure. I can state that this cure has proven to be a permanent one and it gives me pleasure to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others afflicted in a similar manner."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

AWFUL DASH ALL OVER BOY'S BODY

Weeping Eczema Kept Spreading on Little Sufferer—A Score of Treatments Proved Disastrous Failures—Grateful Father Tells of

CURE ACHIEVED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"It gives me great pleasure to express my deep gratitude in appreciation of the incalculable benefit that the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent did my little boy. He over his body and the doctor said it was eczema. It was terrible and used to water awfully. Any place the water went it would form another sore and it would become crusted. A score or more physicians failed utterly and desisted in their efforts to remove the trouble. Then I was told to use the Cuticura Remedies. I got a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, and before long had half the Resolvent I could see a change in him. In about two months he was entirely well. When people see him now they ask, 'What did you get to cure your baby?' and all will say, 'It was the Cuticura Remedies.' So in Cuticura will always have firm and friends. George F. Lambert, 139 West Centre St., Mahanoy City, Pa., September 28 and November 4, 1907."

MILLIONS OF PEOPLE Rely on Cuticura Remedies.

Millions of the world's best people use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. Cuticura Resolvent (liquid or pills) for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin. For eczema, irritations and inflammations. For cleansing the scalp of cruds, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, and many sensitive, and septic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery. Guaranteed absolutely pure. Cuticura Soap (25c), Ointment (10c), Resolvent (25c), and Cuticura Ointment (10c), are sold throughout the world. Write for a sample. An Imaginative Chef.

Imagination and initiative are just as valuable to a cook as they are to a poet or a statesman. Especially are they valuable to the chef of a road-house. No one can foretell what in the world the thinnest diner will fancy he cannot dine without.

Gascon, the new chef at the Inn, was sitting comfortably down to smoke his afternoon pipe when in rushed landlady—landlady, the imperturbable head waiter—his hat on end, his hands in the air.

"Blessed!" cried Gascon, springing to his feet as he scented disaster. "What is it with you, my friend?"

"The barbarian!" cried landlady. "The barbarian! He will eat nothing but one chicken potpie!"

"But it is well, my friend," replied Gascon. "Be seated and calm your rage. We will provide dinner with his desire. Run, Henri, quick! An apple pie! Off with the cover, out with the apple! So! Now, then, softly, the chicken sauce. Pour it slowly. So! On with the cover. Have a care. So! Landlady, my friend, vola! Monsieur est servi!"

Anything to Oblige.

While crossing the ocean the two sprightly children of very senile parents were scampering around the deck.

"Tom, dear," said the mother in a nervous voice, "the children are too near the railing." But he was too ill to notice, and in sheer desperation his wife nudged him on the arm. "Speak to them, Tom," she said faintly.

With a wh- how he lifted his head and said, "Eh—how do you do?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Just Suit Him.

Friend—Why do you encourage these women's suffrage meetings? Surely you don't approve of them. Husband—Approve? With all my heart! I can come home as late as I like now without finding my wife at home to ask questions.—Flegende Blatter.

Scheme to Improve Roads.

Under a new arrangement to systematically improve the roads of Aitchison county, Kan., each trustee will be required to have his township road dragged after every hard rain. It is estimated that a mile of road can be dragged once at a cost of 50 cents and that the cost of keeping each mile in good condition during a year will be $5. The new law calls for a special tax levy to create a road fund.

Prohibition and Democracy.

The Democracy of Kentucky is neither a prohibition nor a liquor party. It stands for the indestructible principles, which it believes to be essential to free government. He who would commit it to either doctrine is its worst enemy, and a traitor to it. To free it from such an alliance, on one side or the other should be the purpose of all good Democrats. It should refrain from party interference with individual opinion on this question, as carefully as it does with liberty of conscience in matters of religion.

Right you are Governor. This has been the position of the News ever since this question has been pushed to the front in Kentucky. A voter can be for the open saloon and just as good a Democrat as the voter who is opposed to it and vice versa. (Whatever may be the individual opinion of any Democrat on the liquor question he is an enemy to party success if he seeks to inject this question into a party platform.)

Books For High School.

The County Board of Education selected for use in the first two years of the High School course these excellent texts:

Algebra, Melne's Standard Composition and Rhetoric, Lockwood and Emerson Geometry, Wentworth Roman History, Mooly's Grecian History, Mooly's Latin, Pearson's Beginners Latin Grammar, Harkness' Caesar, Harkness & Forbes Physical Geography, Dryer's English History, Montgomery.

Web Williamson has returned from Louisville to his home at Vanzant. He expects to go to teaching again.

The Teachers' and Pupils' Cyclopaedia, a five volume work, has been placed in the public school library of the Hardinsburg school. Other volumes will be added. Beginning with this splendid reference work, a good start is made toward a model school library.

AFTER SUFFERING TEN YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MARLTON, N.J.—I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me new life. I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, inflammation, ulceration, indigestion, nervousness, and could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or died, when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so I began to take it, and an well again and relieved of all my suffering. —Mrs. GEORGE JORDY, Box 40, Marlton, N.J. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaint, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, period pains, backache, indigestion and nervousness. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Let together in a few days, when a nominating convention will be called for an early date. We learn that John S. Adair, former county judge of this county and at present and at present cashier of the Stephensport bank, is the only name to go before the convention, and it is said he will receive the nomination beyond a doubt, and will make the race against Gus Brown of Hardinsburg, the Democratic nominee.—Hawesville Clarion.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

GOOD ROADS AND ECONOMY.

Impassable Highways Cost American Farmers Untold Millions.

There is no difference among well informed people as to the cost of bad roads, nor is there any longer a question as to where the burden of the cost is most severely felt. There are hauled over the country roads of the United States every year 255,000,000 tons of produce, equal to 30 per cent of the railway tonnage of the country. The average haul from farm to railway is 0.4 miles, and the cost per ton per mile is between 23 and 25 cents. In Germany over better roads the cost is 10 cents per ton per mile at the maximum and 7 cents per ton per mile at the minimum. The loss suffered by the American farmer and consumer, figured on the basis of the German wagon road toll, is immense. If it were saved from year to year it would soon constitute a fund sufficient to improve all of the common highways of the country.

L. W. Page, who has collected a great deal of valuable information on this subject and who talks about road improvement intelligently and reasonably, is not among those who clamor for the federalization of the highways. On the contrary, he deprecates the use of this country until the federal government puts its hand to the wheel or its hand into its pocket. The states, in his opinion, should take the initiative or at least prove their sincerity by setting an example for the national government.

NEEDLESS WEARING OF ROADS

If Automobile Traffic Would Spread, Highways Would Last Longer.

A country surveyor protests against the habit which many motorists have of doing the majority of their driving on the crown or center of the road. This method of driving means that one portion of the road takes all the wear and naturally, of course, gets worn into ruts and ridges.

If the traffic would spread itself and make all that portion of the road from gutter to the top of the crown take a share of the wear, road surfaces would last much longer and would require less frequent repair. In these days, when roads are made almost fast, there is no excuse for this habit of clinging to the crown, but where roads are made with a great deal of camber it is perhaps excusable, as driving on a continuous slope is the reverse of pleasant.

Let Good Roads Come Quickly.

It is planned by the good roads association of Spokane county, Wash., with the co-operation of the state good roads association, county and township organizations and property owners along the route, to build a modern highway, bordered with a continuous line of shade trees, between Spokane and Coeur d'Alene. Such a road would be of direct benefit to thousands of people, urban and rural residents alike, and would also be a valuable object lesson for the people of the surrounding country, who as time passes are becoming more deeply interested in the vital subject of good and permanent highways. It is hoped the proposed road will materialize and prove the wisdom of its construction in such a way as to cause the idea to spread.

THE MISSING COAT OF ARMS.

It Belonged to the American Consulate In Honolulu and Was Carried Off by a Party of English Middlemen—The Restoration and Apology.

"Speaking of old times on the coast," said an Oregonian, "reminds me of some of the sterling characters we had there. One was Governor McBride of Oregon. His first official duties were at Honolulu, where he was United States minister. King Kamehameha was the ruler at the time. The minister was a heroic type of a man, the father of four children, and a number of his sons became distinguished men in various professions. He was a true American, cast in an ultra patriotic mold, and many stories are told among the oldtimers of his patriotism and bravery.

"When McBride reached Honolulu he found there were no natives in insignia designating the American consulate or minister's office, so he had a large American coat of arms cut out of wood, gilded and decorated appropriately, and this was hung over the office door that all the world might see it. It was naturally a conspicuous object and of much interest to the public.

"One day an English man-of-war came into port. The sailors and midshipmen were given liberty, and, as often happens, some of them had hilarious times. Among the then midshipmen were Lord Gordon and Lord Beresford, who, like all midshipmen in a long cruise, were out for a jolly time. Walking down the street, they did not fail to notice that Yankee coat of arms, and a native policeman, collecting Irishmen and curiosities it occurred to him and Gordon that this would be a fine addition to their collection, a trophy worth having. So they selected a time when the minister was away and the office closed, presumably at night, and took down the coat of arms, hired a native and actually succeeded in getting it aboard without any of the ranking officers knowing anything about it.

"The next morning when the minister came down to the office his assistant said:

"What do you mean?" asked his excellency.

"Your coat of arms is gone," replied the aid.

"Gone where? Flown off?"

"Not exactly," said the other. "It's just disappeared."

"The minister walked out into the street and looked up. The coat of arms, which was five or six feet across, was noticeable by its absence. It had taken wings and flown away. Exactly what the minister said has not been chronicled.

"It so happened that Beresford had given the carriage driver an extra fare for his trouble. Some one discovered this and quickly reported it to the minister, who at once made a demand upon the captain of the frigate for its return. The captain, who was intoxicated, denied that the thing was aboard ship. The minister sent his evidence to the captain, reiterating his demand for the coat of arms, and demanding an apology for the insult.

"The captain now began an investigation, and the culprits owned up and took the coat of arms on deck, when it was promptly sent ashore and returned to the office of the minister. McBride, who was there, refused to receive it.

"Tell the captain of your frigate that I desire that the men who took it down bring it back, place it where they found it and apologize."

"Back to the ship went the men with the coat of arms and reported. The captain ordered the young men to go ashore, take the coat of arms to the consulate, replace it as they found it and apologize to the minister.

"It was doubtless a bitter pill, and the young midshipmen had to stand the badinage of their comrades. The two went ashore, ready to comply, and took the coat of arms to the consulate. The American minister had not put himself out to keep the matter quiet, and as a fact the public was well posted, and the consulate was surrounded by a crowd of Americans, natives and others, all laughing at the predicament of the young midshipmen.

"The minister had a strong sense of humor and determined to get all there was in it. He preserved the dignity a better he could as he received the young men and listened to their apologies. The midshipmen then took the coat of arms from the back and amid cheers of the crowd climbed to the front of the building and placed it in position, then hurried down, followed by laughter and cheers.—C. F. Holder in New York Evening Post.

IN THE POLITICAL GAME.

Sunday morning after the primary there, was some "tall cutting up" in Cloverport by those who had been in knee deep working for Brown and Owen. About 6:30 o'clock Dick Perkins phoned Marshal DeHaven that Brown was defeated. The message had not gotten cold over the wires before the Chief was down in town to investigate matters and make it hot for some one. On his way down he questioned every fellow he met, but got no satisfaction. When he arrived at Perkins's lively stable he was boiling with disappointment, thinking his man had gone down completely. Perkins commenced laughing as soon as he saw him and said, "Old man, it's all a joke, just wanted to fool you." The Chief marched quietly off and laid low until 10 o'clock when the passenger train came. Then he telephoned from the depot to Perkins and told him there were several parties that had come in and wanted rights to go to Tar Springs. Perkins rushed his conveyances to the depot, but no one was in sight except the Chief. "I just wanted to get even with you Dick. Nobody's here but, by the way, young man, Brown is elected", laughed the Marshal.

If ever a man has worked hard, risked his life for two votes, he is Lee Walls. Last week he was driving through the country and met two Republicans on the road. He asked them for their votes and they told him if he would get their working tools, he could have them. Mr. Walls promised he would and anxiously inquired to their whereabouts. "I just wanted to get even with you Dick. Nobody's here but, by the way, young man, Brown is elected", laughed the Marshal.

"Didn't know I had so many friends," said Attorney Babbage the other day. "Since I have been in this campaign, seems like everybody, black and white, are for me". It makes a man feel mighty good to go over the county and have folks say you are sure to win."

o o o

"There is a man on each side that I do not intend to give my vote!" remarked Mr. W. H. Bowmer the other day. Mr. Bowmer says he is going to split the tickets and vote for the cream of both parties. He does not believe in supporting any man who is for whiskey. There are few decided, firm, independent voters like Mr. Bowmer, but the day is coming when the number will be in the majority.

Just The Man For The Place.

Partisan feeling makes it hard for the average voter to select a public officer with the same business caution that he observes in his private transactions. The country would be much better off and the public money and the general business would be safeguarded as a man would his own interests. These observations are made when we are reminded of the candidacy of Victor Hagman for Magistrate in the first district. Mr. Hagman is a young man, full of vigor, and is on the rising tide of a successful life. He has made his own business a complete success, and in this view it is also known that he would be successful as an officer of the county. A position on the bench and as a member of the fiscal court is an important one, and the public should be careful to select good men for these places. We have known Mr. Hagman from infancy, and we can safely say that he is the very kind of a man who is safe to place in a position with the public's money. Remember Victor Hagman for Magistrate in November and put successful men on guard.—Hawesville Clarion.

TAKING THE CENSUS.

The Number Of Enumerators For Each State.

Washington, D. C. Sept. 18.—About sixty-five thousand enumerators will be needed for the thirteenth decennial census of the United States, and also of Hawaii and Porto Rico, according to estimates prepared for Census Director Durand by Geographer Chas. S. Stone, of the census bureau, in whose division the enumerators' districts are defined and fixed. This is an increase of about 11,000 over the number of schedule-carriers in the census of 1900.

Director Durand points out that the per diem in 1900, according to the provisions of section 16 of the act approved March 3, 1899, were required to work ten hours a day, but, in the act providing for the thirteenth and subsequent decennial census, the time is fixed at 9 hours a day. This reduction in the daily hours will require an additional number of enumerators in the proportions of the country in which the per diem rates were prevail.

The present census law requires that the enumeration of the population shall be taken as of the 15th day of April, 1910, and the enumerators must forward their returns to the supervisors, except that in any city having 5,000 inhabitants or more at the preceding census, the enumeration shall be completed within two weeks.

In looking over the details of estimates, Oklahoma and Washington are conspicuous, as they will call for about a 300 per cent increase over the 1900 force of enumerators.

Pennsylvania will continue in the leadership having slightly the largest number of enumerators; the 1910 force being estimated at 5,200 against 4,780 in 1900. New York is second with a probable 5,000 for 1910 as compared with 4,411 in 1900. Next will come Illinois, then Ohio, Texas, Missouri, Massachusetts, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota and California, all needing 2,000 or more enumerators each.

Kentucky will need about 1,600 enumerators. In 1900, 1929 were used.
